

1. Explain the types of ethical interpretations with examples. What are two of Kant's important ideas about ethics? Explain with examples
2. What are John Stewart Mill guiding principles? Explain with examples
3. What is the difference between act utilitarianism and rule utilitarianism?
4. Give an example of a law that implements an ethical principle.
5. Write a short essay, on your discussion in the tutorial on Negative and Positive Rights in terms of: "How about the right to freedom of speech affecting the children from materials that are inappropriate for them?" Develop a code of ethics and etiquette for use of cellphones. Include provisions for cameras in phones.
6. Explain the distinction between the negative and positive right to freedom of speech.
7. In the following case, tell whether the people are interpreting the right they claim as a negative right (liberty) or a positive right (claim right). Explain in this case what kind of right it should be, and why?

Two members of the House of Parliament ran for re-election at a general election and lost. They attempted to sue an organization that sponsored a series of media adverts publicizing their expenses claims. The former parliamentarians argued that the organization had interfered with their right to hold office.